Ragging is a punishable offence Ragging in any form is strictly prohibited within the premises of St. Vincent Pallotti College .

Any instance of ragging would attract severe punishment of cancellation of admission, suspension, rustication or expulsion from the college/Hostel.

Apart from the college level punishment, there will be strong police and legal action. Ragging is a cognizable offence under the law of the land, and the Supreme Court has ruled that the punishment to be meted out has to be exemplary and harsh to act as a deterrent.

According to relevant sections of the Indian Penal Code (IPC), those found guilty for a ragging related offence can be punished with imprisonment or fine or both. The quantum of punishment varies with the gravity of the crime.

What is ragging? Anything that may cause a fresher physical or mental discomfort due to an act of a senior. More specifically,

- Physical abuse, for example, forcing to eat, drink or smoke, forcing to dress or undress.
- Verbal abuse, for example swear words and phrases, direct or indirect derogatory references to the person's appearance, attire, religion, caste, family or chosen field of study.
- Any "interaction" outside public areas.

- Visiting fresher's rooms during the interaction period, or inviting freshers to their rooms.
- Forcing fresher's to sing, dance or perform in any way under the guise of "talent search" or "interaction".

The Supreme Court of India has observed that enrollment in academic pursuits or a campus life should not immunize any adult citizen from the penal provisions of the laws of the land. According to the directions of the Supreme Court if any instance of ragging is brought to the notice of the administration or the faculty, it is legally binding on us to report the matter to the local police.

Any act of Ragging should be reported immediately to college authority or Anti-ragging & Discipline Committee.

TIPS TO SUCCEESS IN STUDIES:

1. Always remember that academics come FIRST.
2. Be attentive in class, note down the important things. Get back and refer books, discuss with your friends and make sure that the concepts are clearly understood and 75% of your academic work is done.
3. Do all your assignments in time and another 10-15% of the work is done.
4. Rest 10-15% will include preparations for your sessionals and end-semester exams.
5. You shall still have ample amount of time left. Make use of the time for your extracurricular activities.
6. Do listen to your seniors. But remember that NOT all that the seniors say is right.
7. Never have prejudice about a course or a professor, building a judgment based on what your seniors or your peers say.
8. It's not just the marks you score in the exams that is important but knowledge that you gain and how you apply it is what matters the most.
9. Do seek advice from others, bur remember that YOU are always the best judge of your abilities. So decide how much time to spend on course works and how much to the rest.

10. Do not panic if you score low marks. Instead find out where you went wrong and correct yourself
11. Speak to your class in charges/faculty advisor/concerned /Professors when you are in trouble.
12. If you see your friends staying up all night watching movies/playing computer games, it is up to you to say no to it, and wake up fresh next day for classes. Saying no to things you consider as wrong will not harm your relationships with others. Learn to differentiate between the good and the bad. Accept the good, reject the bad.
13. Learn to take notes in class. Teachers usually do not go by textbooks exclusively and will illustrate concepts through examples or ideas which may be seen in a textbook. It will be necessary for you to know what is being taught, if you are concerned about learning.
14. Do not panic if you have difficulty comprehending the teacher during the first weeks of your stay. Make a note of the point. Often you can ask a question in class (May not be possible in a large class) so that the teacher knows that you need an explanation. In any case, check on the point with your friends later in the day.
